

CURE THE STREETS

Cure the Streets (CTS) is a public safety pilot program working to reduce gun violence in the District. CTS uses a data-driven, public-health approach to treat violence as a disease that can be interrupted, treated, and stopped from spreading. CTS is working in six sites with some of the highest rates of gun violence in Wards 5, 7 and 8 (site maps on back).

For more information, contact OAG's Violence Reduction Co-chiefs Allen James and Lashonia Thompson-El at curethestreets@dc.gov and visit oag.dc.gov/PublicSafety.

Attorney General
Karl A. Racine
oag.dc.gov

Working to reduce violence in these ways:

Detecting and Interrupting Potentially Violent Conflicts

CTS Violence Interrupters (VIs) are hired for their credibility, relationships, and influence within targeted neighborhoods and trained to resolve conflicts. VIs engage with the community to learn about brewing conflicts and resolve them peaceably before they erupt in violence. If a shooting does occur, CTS works with those affected by the incident to prevent retaliation. CTS also organizes rallies or vigils when shootings occur to ensure that violence is not normalized.

Identifying and Treating High-Risk Individuals

CTS Outreach Workers (OWs) recruit and work with individuals at high risk for involvement with violence in order to reduce their risk factors. OWs meet with program participants several times a week to implement individualized risk reduction plans. They also help connect participants with needed services, such as housing, counseling, and employment assistance, and develop action plans for a positive future.

Mobilizing the Community to Change Norms

CTS engages with residents, community leaders, local businesses, faith leaders, service providers, and high-risk individuals to build coalitions and develop strategies to reduce violence. CTS works with these partners to organize forums and public events where residents can gather and interact safely without fear of conflict and violence.

CURE THE STREETS

Community partners employ 60 Cure the Streets staff at these sites.

Ward 5

Eckington/Truxton and Trinidad

Ward 7

Marshall Heights/Benning Heights

Ward 8

Bellevue,
Washington Highlands, and Washington Highlands/Congress Heights

